

FARLEY, EPICS GET TOGETHER IN PEACE MEET

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Smiling blandly, Postmaster General James A. Farley, bald tactician of the Democratic party, strode into a plain, bare office on the fifth floor of a bank building tonight.

With him, arm in arm and smiling with a sort of cherubic glee, was gray-haired Upton Sinclair, remodelled Socialist and titular head of California's Democracy.

MEETING CALLED

The scene, prelude to a hastily-called meeting, caused more snawling of fingernails among California's so-called conservative Democrats than did Sinclair's nomination on the Democratic ticket in the race for governor last fall. It represented the most pointed gesture yet made by the National Administration toward the "EPIC" movement—problem child of Democracy.

Within the office were gathered a dozen political chieftains of the State—all Sinclair "EPIC" men. Newsmen were barred. When Farley emerged, brushing past reporters clustered at the door, he still was smiling broadly, but made no announcement save that "a press conference will be held at the hotel."

SINCLAIR PLEASED

Sinclair was not so reticent. Following Farley through the door, beaming and buoyant in his shirt sleeves, he remarked that "politics is not private."

"Mr. Farley has changed," he told reporters. "He sees the views of liberal Democrats."

The session, in offices of State Senator Culbert L. Olson, EPIC chief in the legislature, marked the most important assembly of left-wing Democrats since formation of the "EPIC" movement in a small hotel room in Santa Monica, Calif., exactly 12 months ago.

It climaxed a week of fences straddling by the ponderous Democratic chief, who openly snubbed Sinclair in the election of 1934. At that time the Administration refused to endorse the EPIC "production for use" system, despite Sinclair's insistence President Roosevelt "promised to support us in two fireside talks."

The right wing faction in the State turned a cold shoulder to the campaign.

Last week Farley threw a chill into conservatives by hobnobbing openly with EPIC leaders, and added to the furor when he failed to show up at a barbecue given in his honor by Hamilton H. Cotton, right wing leader.

SINCLAIR NOT MUTE

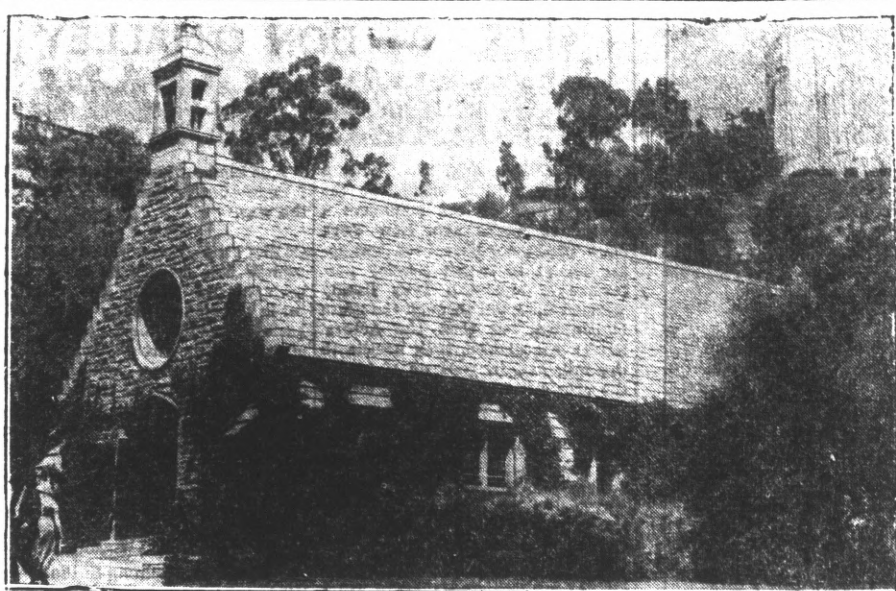

Today marked first outright contact between Farley and Sinclair since the breach last year, and was diagnosed by political prophets as a direct bid for EPIC alignment in the 1936 presidential campaign.

Sinclair minced no words about the meeting.

"Our side has the votes, Ham Cotton has the money," he declared bluntly. "Farley wants them both."

RECEPTION PLANNED FOR FAIRMONT TEACHERS

Plans were perfected at a meeting of the executive board of Fairmont Parent-Teachers Association held yesterday afternoon for the first meeting of the P. T. A. this year, which will take place on September 3.

The event will be in the nature of a reception tendered in honor of the teachers by the executive board of the P. T. A. The social will follow the regular business meeting, and all members and friends are invited to attend. It is especially hoped that all mothers who have children at Fairmont school will be present.

On the evening of September 20 there will be a whist party in the P. T. A. room at the school. Mrs. Blake McNeil will be chairman in charge, assisted by Mrs. R. R. Check, Mrs. Eugene Smith and Mrs. H. S. Prior.

LIONS LISTEN TO EXCELLENT ADDRESS

The Lions' Club dinner program Monday evening was made interesting by the excellent address of J. H. Baker who spoke on "Is the Average Citizen Safe in an Emergency?" It was the speaker's opinion that rather than often the average citizen will abandon his own judgment under the barrage of propaganda and adopt that of the mob, as is done when war hysteria sweeps a nation.

The president of the club, Forest W. Wright, presided at the meeting. A. H. MacKinnon was chairman of the day. At next Monday's dinner Dr. E. W. Jackson will act as chairman.

SEWING CLASSES AT SCHOOL TO RESUME

El Cerritos will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Isabel Anderson will resume her classes in sewing at Fairmont school next Friday. There will be both morning and afternoon classes the same as last year.

Mrs. Anderson is an expert in her line. Her services are furnished by the school board and are free to all except for the sum of 50 cents per semester registration fee. The classes proved very popular last year as instruction was given in cutting, fitting, garment making and finishing, and in millinery. Each member brings her own material and makes her own garment. Remodeling of hats and garments is also given attention.

IBBETSONS, RETURN FROM FOREIGN TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. H. Ibbetson and their daughter, Daisy, of 5715 Panama avenue returned recently from a trip to England, the former home of the Ibbetsons. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Ibbetson's sister, Mrs. Daisy Ibbetson, and her son, Elmer, of Blackpool, England, who will remain here until the middle of September.

ITEMS OF LOCAL AND SOCIAL INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. Pierri Allano and Jack Washington returned Sunday evening from a ten-day stay in Tuolumne county. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Allano's sister, Mrs. J. A. Daly, who will visit here a few days.

Mrs. Nellie Fisher of Bala Drive and her sister spent last week on the Fisher ranch near Napa.

Miss Alice Hollenbaugh returned Sunday from Valico where she had been vacationing with friends.

Mrs. W. W. Wells left recently for Los Angeles where she will stay for some time with her sister, who is seriously ill in the southern city.

Ed Crane of San Francisco visited his home here Sunday.

It is rumored that Cupid is getting in his deadly work over at the Quality Market, and the very first thing anyone knows there is going to be a wedding involving someone, or maybe two, over there.

Mrs. Gertrude Smith and son are home from a week's visit to Sacramento.

CASE DROPPED BUT NEW SUIT AT ONCE FILED

MARTINEZ, Aug. 27.—(UP)—A head technician, Superior Judge A. J. Gray today dissolved a temporary restraining order and dismissed a hearing on an order to show cause in an injunction suit filed by the American Smelter & Refining Company against the Carmichael Local Union, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, seeking to prevent entry and use of using Torrey streets.

Institution of the suit followed a strike at the company's Selby plant, which has been shut down. Four hundred and fifty men are idle.

NEW HEARING SET

Request for the dismissal, made by the smelter company's own attorney, J. M. Carlson and Robert V. Collins of Richmond, was followed immediately by application for a new temporary restraining order and Judge Gray said that he would set Friday morning, August 30, at 10 o'clock as the time for a new hearing on an order to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

Attorney James P. Dwyer of Martinez represented the union while District Attorney Francis P. Healey appeared as amicus curiae, or friend of the court in an advisory capacity.

NOT PROPER NOTICE

When court convened it had been expected the case would be continued until this afternoon, since Attorney Carlson and District Attorney Healey were scheduled to appear at a preliminary hearing for Amadeo Torres, on a murder charge.

They opposed the continuance, however, and during arguments over the point it was brought out that the law requires that notice must be served upon defendants two days prior to a hearing on an order to show cause for an injunction, and that in this case the defendants were not served until yesterday afternoon, only one day in advance.

Carlson and Collins immediately petitioned the court for dissolution of the temporary restraining order and dismissal of the hearing on the order to show cause, which Judge Gray granted.

In the injunction suit, which was filed Saturday, the smelter company claims that streets in Torrey are private property and that on August 22, 1935, union men entered upon and took possession of the premises and threatened to destroy the smelter plant of the corporation and houses of employees. Union men deny any threats and claim the streets are public.

Mrs. Gertrude Smith and son are home from a week's visit to Sacramento.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO STATE CROPS FOLLOWS RAINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—(UP)—Tropical sultriness and unsettled weather conditions which during the past two days has played havoc with California's fruit, vegetable and grain crops appeared to be lifting tonight.

A few scattered showers over the high Sierra Nevada mountains tomorrow will be the only break in a prophesied return to Indian summer weather, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau's forecast for tonight.

Generally fair weather over Sacramento, San Joaquin and Salina valleys was anticipated, simultaneous with return to humidity no rain. Virtual cessation of damaging lowland rainfall was expected tomorrow.

The dank, humid air mass which accompanied crop-destroying showers, and which concentrated on the Salinas and Santa Clara valleys was moving into the Pacific Northwest, Portland, Ore., figures show that the temperature had risen 31 degrees and the humidity had fallen to 25 percent today, compared to the marks of 89 degrees at 39 per cent yesterday.

As threat of further agricultural damage passed, a check-up showed Santa Clara and Salinas valley prime growers were hit hardest. Approximately one-quarter of the a devastated 70,000 ton crop, valued $15 a ton, was ruined.

About one-half of California 64,000 acre tomato crop was feared lost, and Salinas expected her losses from lettuce slime.

Prospects of mountain range cheerless forest rangers and cattlemen, who looked forward to a lessened fire hazard and fresher range pastures.

FOR HIRE A BIG STRONG MAN

willing to work a 10-hour day for 4.4¢

"Kilowatt" is a mysterious term to many. It's a unit of power, equaling one and one-third horsepower or the power of ten men.

A kilowatt hour isn't a time hour. It's the time consumed in using a kilowatt of electric energy.

ONE KILOWATT HOUR EQUALS
A horse and a pony working together for one hour or
One man working for 10 hours.

REMEMBER the first vacuum cleaner you ever used? Right then you put kilowatts to work. (Think of them either as horsepower or manpower.) Right then you decided your days of sweeping with a broom were over for all time. Electricity is, no doubt, doing the hard work of many other jobs in your home, because it does them easily and well for little money. Even a few pennies (that's little money, to be sure) will do a lot of scrubbing, beating, rubbing and churning when it hires electric servants.

4.4¢ for electricity will scrub 4 tubful of clothes, and in addition will beat batter for 2 dozen cakes, sweep 6 room-size rugs, and turn a sewing machine for an afternoon of dressmaking. . . . Honestly, doesn't electricity work cheaply?

Even in the Orient, where labor is the cheapest, you can't hire a household servant to work ten hours for several times 4 cents.

Maritime War Is Predicted By Radical Leader

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—"A damned big fight" involving seamen and steamship companies in every United States port on the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf of Mexico and Great Lakes was predicted today by Harry Bridges, fiery San Francisco Longshoremen president.

Almost a reiteration of the prophecy uttered by Sam Darcy, erstwhile California gubernatorial candidate, before a recent Communist congress in Moscow, Bridges' assertion foreshadowed "the greatest maritime strike in history."

Along the Atlantic, sailors are already contributing to a strike-sustaining fund in anticipation of the walkout, he revealed. Asked when he expected trouble might develop, he replied, "Almost any time now."

"WAR TO FINISH"

The militant stevedore leader, prime mover in left-wing marine labor activities on the West Coast for two years, declared, "It will be a war to the finish."

"There are two classes open to labor one, to aid in destroying brother unions, and the other, to break with employers. We have chosen the latter," Bridges then laid bare the thoughts behind his militancy.

"We used the editorial we aren't looking for trouble, but if our employers try to put union groups against each other, as they've been attempting to do, we'll get together and fight it out. That's exactly what we've been doing."

AUXILIARY TO LEGION POST HAS SESSION

The first meeting under the direction of the new officers was held last evening by the Auxiliary to the American Legion at the Memorial hall. Pearl Outman, president, presided.

Reports on the convention held at Fresno were made by Mrs. Pearl Johnson, Mrs. Trulla Spier, Mrs. Alice Willes and Mrs. Michael Outman.

A short meeting will be held by the group September 10, after which the members will go to Martinez to install officers for the Martinez Auxiliary.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. S. Croe, Mrs. T. Zimmerman, Mrs. Leah Baker and Mrs. Pearl Outman.

KEYSTONE C. E. CLASS WILL HAVE PROGRAM

Installation of officers will be held by the Keystone Christian Endeavor class of the First Christian church this evening at a meeting to be held in the church parlors.

The meeting will open with a dinner at 6:30, which will be followed by the installation ceremonies.

A program has been arranged for the evening.

Mary Jo Hunt, local pianist, will present several piano selections; Mrs. Billy Brown will give readings; vocal solo by Frank Hartner; piano duets by Mary Jo Hunt and Evelyn Jane Neville and piano selections by Orva Reeves.

ALPHA LODGE DEGREE WORK MEETING HELD

The third degree was conferred in a class of candidates last evening by Alpha Masque Lodge under the direction of E. George Harlow, the master. Harlow was assisted in the work by Dr. C. M. Nelson of Point Lodge and John Smith of Pinole Lodge.

Refreshments were served. Next week a stated meeting will be held by the lodge.

Trouble In Sight Solons Streaming Home For New Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—UP—Weary members of the 74th Congress, straggling homeward toward leaving behind a mass of controversy, today began the final session of the session, which they will be unable to do or kill when they meet again on January 3, 1936.

A line of some of these measures indicates they will be successful in their efforts. The "son vote" for my bill and I'll vote for you," a common come-again motif in the members of both Houses especially during an election year.

MONEY SOUGHT FOR ACT HUEY TALKED DEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—UP—Money can be found to finance the social betterment program that got caught in an 11th-hour jam in Congress, it was said tonight after New Deal leaders conferred with President Roosevelt.

Details have not been worked out, but the money denied to federal agencies because of Huey Long's filibuster probably will be transferred from some other fund.

HUEY TAKES STAND

Long charged in a formal statement meaning that anyone opposing his stand against the bill was guilty of "blackmail and sabotage of constitutional government."

He said that whoever agreed to the leaders' proposed handling of the third deficiency bill "is not a Senator or Congressman." Instead, he said:

"(The leadership's procedure) is the worst case of blackmail and bribery ever perpetrated."

NO PENSION GRANTS

The tentative decision reached at the conference attended by comptroller General John R. McCull, who supervises and checks the expenditure of Federal money, was to use funds from the $450,000,000 work relief reserve to set up the Administrative boards that will carry out such programs as social security.

None of that money will be used, however, to make grants such as old age pensions and railroad retirement pay. The idea worked out across President Roosevelt's desk was to get enough money from the work relief fund to set up the machinery and leave the voting of another appropriation to the next Congress, convening in January.

"We explored the whole matter of getting money," said Speaker Joseph W. Byrnes, who explained the arrangement.

With McCull to the White House went Congressional leaders who sat racing but helpless, last night while Huey Long had a final fling at filibustering. By talking from dusk until midnight, which was the automatic hour of adjournment, Long killed the third deficiency bill, that legislation carried appropriations totaling about $33,000,000. The money was to have been spent to start the social security program with its provisions for old age pensions and care of crippled children.

A Case of Specific Thrombosis in Which the Sufferer Has Been Bedridden a Year

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

REVA J. is a victim of specific thrombotic phlebitis and has been bedridden for a year. The condition followed pneumonia and the limbs are drawn up with partial ankylosis of the joints. He is twenty-five years old and reports that he is now gaining in health and use of his muscles except for his hands, arms, and feet.

Massage has been used daily, and I am guessing that a vast deal of courage and will to live have also been part of the improvement.

This condition is one of inflammation of the inner lining of the veins of the legs, either the superficial or deep veins or both, with obstruction to the flow of blood due to blood clots. In women, this is the so-called milk leg following childbirth.

I should be fearful of massage in this condition as some of the clots might be dislodged and find their way to some small blood vessel in one of the vital organs, such as the heart or brain. He does not state, but I judge this patient suffered severe chills and high fever with much pain.

Used an Injection

I have just been treating a case of this kind and a very discouraging one. In a few months we were able to overcome the condition by inter-muscular injections of a non-specific protein in small doses, gradually increased. I used Hemo-protein (Brooks) and have been pleased with its action in several cases of generalized infection.

Reva J. asks if the artificial fever machine would relieve this case. It is possible that artificial fever therapy would be successful, as it is highly advantageous in the various forms of inflammation such as arthritis and rheumatism. It must be used only by experts in a hospital especially equipped.

Passive Vascular Exercise, as represented by the "PaVaEx" is an entirely new, expensive but remarkable machine, is suggested for these cases. It also requires skilled use which is possible only in hospitals. The PaVaEx uses a system of alternating pressure in a vacuum, the result being an increased flow of blood to the affected areas.

Here's to you, Reva! Youth and determination make it hard to keep a good man down!

An Unusual Case

Query: Mrs. A. C. has suffered for years with frequent tenderness around, and a discharge from, her navel or umbilicus. She fears that the odor indicates cancer and asks information. Before birth, the umbilical cord enters the body at the navel. A tube, called the urachus, passes from that point directly into the urinary bladder. Normally this tube closes at birth or shortly afterward and is heard of no more, but occasionally it remains open or partly open. If the urachus remains slightly open, inflammation may occur at times and a purulent or bloody fluid may be discharged. Cystic tumors of the open portion of the tube are common. This tube lies under the skin and muscles of the abdomen and outside the abdominal cavity. Some years ago, I removed a dermoid cyst as large as an orange from the urachus just above the bladder. The patient, a boy about eighteen years old, had complained for years of occasional pain, which was attributed to indigestion. I have never seen any record of cancer of the urachus, but with constant irritation, it could be possible. In Mrs. A. C.'s case, it would be a minor procedure to cut down on this cord and dissect it out with complete relief from symptoms. An electric cautery passed into the tube might destroy it.

MIDDY STYLE

Short Cuts

A shoulder shower, fits around the neck like a collar. It is portable and requires no curtain. It lets your hair remain dry and does not splash the bathroom. It comes with a massage spray and shampoo attachment.

Hint to home-owners: Doors and woodwork that are well painted all over, front and back, to seal the pores of the wood, will not swell or shrink as readily as wood which has not been treated in this manner.

Brown sugar is subject to lumpiness. It has to be rolled out to a smooth consistency before measuring. As brown sugar otherwise has a tricky way of looking like a cupful when it is only about two-thirds full. Before measuring, cup is leveled off on top, so that the sugar is solidly packed.

Above is a navy jersey middy with double seaming outlining the yoke and braid trimming the middy collar and the wrists. Embroidered darts accent the slashed pocket. Here it is combined with a gray mixture wool skirt.

Plump State Better Than Being Thin

By JACQUELINE HUNT

EVERY one of you will agree with me that excess fat is unattractive, but you will also agree that a few pounds overweight is preferable to a figure that is too thin. There are two kinds of thinness—that resulting from illness or some physical disorder and that caused by faulty diet, nervousness, and overwork.

Young or middle-aged, you can have attractive curves and fresh, full cheeks if you follow the right procedure. First try to find out the cause for your underweight. If there is any physical illness, you should follow your doctor's directions, but if faulty diet or overwork are to blame there are a number of "don'ts" and "musts" you should observe.

You must have more than the average amount of rest and sleep. You must have a plentiful supply of nourishing, easily digested food and carefully balanced meals.

You must exercise, although it is advisable for you to give up all sports or activities that require severe physical strain.

All of these things can be done in your own home with a little planning and a few dollars.

Nine hours of sleep or even more is advisable. If you have difficulty getting to sleep at night, a large glass of warm milk and a few lumps of sugar, or a glass of warm milk with a good bath oil is soothing and beneficial, whenever you can spare the time for it.

If you are a homemaker you may be able to plan a short nap in the afternoon when the children have theirs. If you go to business, then eat a leisurely, but not heavy, lunch and retire to the rest room for a few minutes of complete relaxation.

Three nourishing meals each day is the rule, however, you may find that you cannot eat enough to fulfill your caloric requirements without a feeling of discomfort. In this case you may plan a light mid-meal between breakfast and lunch or between lunch and dinner. A dish of ice cream, a glass of milk with a simple cookie, or a light sandwich and cup of tea are permissible and will help you put on pounds.

Eggs, butter, milk and meat may be eaten freely with starchy fruits and vegetables like bananas, squash and potatoes. Of course, you will need rather liberal servings of green salads and fruit to fulfill your mineral and vitamin needs, and often cod-liver oil or one of the vitamin concentrates are advisable. These improve the appetite and the digestion.

More suggestions for the "thinness" tomorrow!

QUESTION: "My toes are ugly and misshapen and covered with corns and callouses. I know that I should see a chiropodist, but I cannot afford to do so. Is there anything I can do at home to improve the appearance of my feet?"—F. F.

Properly fitted shoes will do most to improve the shape and appearance of your feet. Talk your problems over with the clerk the next time you buy a new pair of shoes and see if he will not try to fit you properly. Really good shoes are not expensive, but they will last for a long while and the comfort that you get out of them will repay you. Treat the callouses with cuticle remover and then scrub gently with powdered pumice. Rinse and massage with cold cream or cocoa butter. The callouses will not be completely removed with the first treatment.

QUESTION: "My hands chap badly from washing and housework. I have tried several kinds of hand lotions, but find most of them too expensive, although they are good. Is there some simple lotion that I can make at home?"—Mrs. E. H.

A favorite hand lotion of our grandmothers is made up of equal parts glycerine and rose water or orange-flower water with a few drops tincture of benzoin added. Use each time you wash your hands. Two or three times a week, I suggest that you massage your hands thoroughly with cocoa butter or toilet lanoline to lubricate the skin and replenish in a degree the natural oils that are removed by soapy water and exposure.

QUESTION: "What is the correct way to raise a stiff straw hat?"—T. O. R.

ANSWER: The same way as a derby is lifted, by lifting the brim directly in front. Lift it up away from the head and forward a few inches.

QUESTION: "Do I have to wear a veil at an informal church wedding? I have been thinking of having a long white dress with a small white hat which has a veil around it. Is this correct?"—V. V.

ANSWER: A bride does not have to wear a veil at an informal wedding, but it is customary that her head should be covered. In short, at a wedding such as you plan, you may wear any becoming hat to match the dress that you wear. If you like, it may have a veil such as you describe, this being a matter of personal preference. Also, your dress need not be white. A more practical plan is to get an attractive afternoon dress in a becoming color, something that will give you some wear after the wedding.

Fall Sleeve Silhouette Is Late Summer Vegetables Are Bathed in Rich Color

By IRENE VAIL

New York—In planning a fall wardrobe do not overlook the importance of novelty, woolens, ruddy and otherwise, and of tailored dresses in which colors are a detail. Peplums and tunics are in the styles, and pleats are ever present.

One is in the danger of forgetting that the most important silhouette changes are apparent in sleeves which have blossomed out into extraordinary sizes. It's the broad, not the narrow, shoulder that seems the best at the moment.

In order to keep the silhouette simple, elegance in embroidery details is being introduced—or perhaps it is better to say, that in order to launch elegant details the silhouette is to remain simple. But is the silhouette simple? Not very—yet it pleases fashion reports to refer to it as such. Nothing in which cut and drape play such a part is actually simple. Pleats, too, are inserted here or there and all manner of liberties are taken with the straight line. "Simple elegance" is a more descriptive term than merely "simple."

There is nothing simple about the new fabrics and the new trimmings—nothing naive about the newest colors, or about the current preference for precious metals and stones—or about the newest hats and the still newer looking collars.

We have no such romantic term to describe the late summer vegetables, yet we find the same rich tones in the squash, cucumbers, melons, eggplant, grapes, and peppers.

MODERN WOMEN

If the Women Have Taken Up Smoking, Why Shouldn't Men Knit?

By MARIAN MAY'S MARTIN

SHOULD you be easily discouraged type you will not be greatly heartened over the headline: "Wins Knitting Contest" or over the subhead telling that he beat a field of one hundred women.

Take what solace you can, sisters, out of the fact that he learned to knit at his mother's knee because, so he said, "someone had to help mother," who had five sons besides himself to be forever demanding, or a boy who was

You and Your Child

Better to Forgive After Punishment

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

AFTER my child has been punished I leave him alone and have very little to say to him," one parent observed. "I want to give the lesson a chance to sink in."

A mother who is a good disciplinarian, I guess, is a good mother because it takes so much out of her. Some times long after punishing I do not know when he talks to me, I know that it is wrong, but I cannot help it."

"From what I'm going to confess you will think that I am weak. I'm never so nice to my child," the third mother confessed. "As I am after punishing him."

The first parent has an idea that a child ought to repent after punishment. The second parent admittedly behaved as she does through a lack of emotion. The third parent "takes so much out of" her, may not be the type of punishment employed by wrong. Instead of scolding or beating her youngster and working herself up to a state of anger and bitterness while doing it, why not deprive the boy of some pleasure temporarily by way of punishment?

It is fair enough to punish when a child is deserving of a lesson, but punishment, lest we forget, is not for the purpose of hurting a child or inducing repentance. The child, after all, is not wrong. It is merely some act of his which needs correction.

The third mother doubts her happy obedient children. The ideal method after punishing is to act naturally, the same as always, thus proving to the child that you bear him no grudge.

Why Shouldn't They? Seriously, though, why shouldn't men who are unable to do anything else, knit, crochet or even sew? If the Prince of Wales can find time, between laying cornerstones, to knit, more men could do so. Besides, doctors tell us women's knitting is good for the nerves, and men are jumpy enough, goodness knows.

Women have gone in for all of the so-called manly sports, so why shouldn't men acquire some of our arts and crafts? Women may smoke and men may knit—set the idea? And again, why not?

There are any number of perfectly good he-men crochets, and believe it or not, any number of perfectly good he-men dress designers and milliners. Some of the finest style creative brains are masculine—if there is a sex distinction in brains. A man is not necessarily a sissy because he has a talent and taste for clothes or decor. True, designing is apart from the actual making, but there never was a designer, male or female, who did not try his or her hand at twisting and turning, maybe even joining fabrics and colors in order to get, or give, their effect. Admitting that I should register surprise were any of my men friends to produce their knitting, I hope I am liberal enough not to be shocked.

The Problem Dance
"My dear Mrs. Martin: Do you think that a girl fifteen should be allowed to attend dances at a country club? I don't mean the regular Saturday night dances but what they call Junior Dances held one night during the week. My husband says 'no,' yet all the mothers in our town allow their children, some even younger, to attend. I don't really approve of it, because the children do act so terribly grown-up, even sneaking off to smoke. Yet what can I do? My friends think I am crazy to hesitate, yet between my husband's opposition and my own feeling I am in a quandary. My daughter, who is at present in camp, takes it for granted that she will be allowed to go. What do you think? Only Child."

I think she should be allowed to go, that is if you have attended any of these dances and are familiar with the set-up. Since they are held in a club you are in a position to know with whom your child is associating. Allow your girl to attend such dances as you describe if it is different from permitting her to dance in roadhouses or other public places. She presumably only contacts children of her parents' friends or acquaintances. You cannot keep a girl of fifteen from wanting to go to dances, and since you are providing her with the proper sort of environment you must trust to her good breeding and common sense to carry on through.

Take her to the club and call for her at a reasonable hour. Never leave her coming or going to chance. I agree with you that it seems a shame to be so grown-up at that age.

AN UNUSUAL JAM

GINGER PEAR JAM: Four cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit, one-half to one cup diced crystallized ginger, seven and one-half cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar, one bottle fruit pectin. Crush three pounds ripe pears. Dice one-half pound crystallized ginger. Measure sugar and prepared fruit, tightly packed, into large kettle. Add ginger, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about eleven glasses.

NEWTROUBLE FEARED IN SANTA ROSA

leave the county within 24 hours. Three other men kissed the flag and promised to leave. Tear gas bombs and a night of riotous parading, punctuated by shotgun blasts when Nitzburg resisted seizure, marked the far and feather "party."

Copies of the handbills distributed today reportedly were handed over immediately to leaders of the vigilantes.

While the situation has remained quiet in Santa Rosa since Thursday vigilante organization has been maintained without a break, it was indicated. The group has issued warnings that labor agitation in the rich apple-growing districts, the hop fields and fruit areas will not be tolerated. Communists have been accused of fomenting strikes, and have been warned by the vigilantes to leave the county.

TO VISIT IN S. F.

Unofficial reports also were circulated that the "anti-red" group planned to visit San Francisco in an attempt to "clean out" alleged radical leadership and members of waterfront and marine unions. Ship owners reportedly have demanded a "purge" of union ranks, charging that "radicals" were guiding the unions in "unlike" strikes and exorbitant demands.

PROBE 28 ON

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—UP.—State and county authorities are uniting in an investigation of vigilante activities in Santa Rosa. Attorney General U. S. Webb indicated today.

Demands have poured into Webb's office for action against members of a mob that tarred and feathered two men last week and forced three others to leave Sonoma county.

"I have been going about my investigation quietly," Webb reported today. "When it is completed the findings will be made available to the public."

Besides, Santa Rosa officials are doing all right. Anyway, the law enforces me to step in when local officials fail to do their duty. I do not provide appropriations for enforcement until Sept. 15."

Two Convicts In Pleas For Parole

Two persons who were arrested by Richmond police several years ago have applied for paroles from the State Board of Prison Terms and Paroles.

Frank Steele, Tolson prison convict and serving time for a series of burglaries in Richmond and James Fred Burke, who was arrested by local police five years ago on counterfeiting charges, both asked for paroles.

Steele was shot by Police Sergeant Frank Gray, who surprised the man in the act of robbing a store at Sixteenth street and Macdonald avenue. Steele confessed to 25 robberies here and led police to a cache of the loot.

Burke and his wife were arrested at Hotel Carmona. They had a complete prison press for printing fictitious travelers' checks in their own names. Mr. Burke was sent to Tehachas but died there before his term was completed.

TORRES HELD FOR TRIAL ON MURDER COUNT

MARTINEZ, Aug. 27.—(Radio) Torres, 33, "ghost" radio confession of the slaying of Amelia Earhart, 36, must stand trial in Superior Court on murder charge. Judge of the Peace A. R. Wilson determined here today at the conclusion of the railroad section band's preliminary hearing.

There were reports, however, that by attorneys for Torres, that he would enter a plea of guilty and seek the mercy of the court.

Weak from two attempts to strangle himself, emaciated and right-lipped, Torres sat readily in a chair for two hours during the course of his preliminary examination. With eyes closed tightly, he clung to the sides of the chair with his hands. Two deputy sheriffs led him back to the county jail at the conclusion of the hearing.

Torres exhibited no interest in the preliminary court proceedings and did not converse with his attorneys, T. M. Carlson, Robert Collins and Francis Collins.

District Attorney Francis Healey and Deputy Gordon Turner presented but four witnesses. The defense offered no testimony.

G. R. Silva testified Torres had told him the defendant had thrown a green body into the bay. Silva's statement was made by Sheriff Josephine, who said Torres had told him to "keep quiet." He said he left the defendant at 2 A. M. and that he saw him again at 6 A. M., attired in different clothes. Joe Triandias testified he heard sounds like pistol shots. Sheriff John A. Miller testified to the recovery of Cabrera's body from the bay and his investigation.

The "ghost" radio confession, purportedly obtained through reconstruction of the crime in a radio broadcast, did not figure in the questioning.

Healey was impressed by the apparent weakness of Torres.

"I don't know whether he'll live to face trial," he said.

Other officers, however, said Torres' condition has shown vast improvement.

Judge To Try Stanislaus Case

MARTINEZ, Aug. 27.—Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnston today received notification from the judicial council that he has been assigned to Modesto, Stanislaus county, September 4 to try a case.

The case deals with assessments upon irrigation districts. The judge was informed.

Judge Johnston is now on his vacation and is scheduled to return to the bench here on September 16.

GETTING ADVERTISED

I wanted to pick up the Christian Science Monitor, and there on the front page it was gratifying to find starting me in the face an article telling how effectively the traffic school here is functioning. Score one for our Traffic Commission.

A fact was disclosed in the dispatch which has heretofore escaped my attention, and that is one third of the enrollment is voluntary.

The school was established primarily for offenders against the traffic laws, but a number of those who drive, apparently realized that they could attend and absorb knowledge that would redound to their benefit.

According to A. J. Cundy, acting police sergeant and school instructor, the pupils seem to experience a change of heart after a lesson or two. At first they appear resentful but this attitude changes, and instead of feeling aggrieved they appear glad to cooperate. Many of them remain after instruction hours to ask questions and their interest is maintained through soliciting friends to join.

There is no question in my mind but that the school is filling a much needed want in the community, and my only regret is that I am not empowered to send some people there who are so badly in need of the educational advantages the institution offers.

CONFERENCE CALLED AT WASHINGTON

preparation for that stand State Department officials dug out the letter which Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for Foreign Affairs, wrote to President Roosevelt in November, 1933, when recognition of Moscow was under consideration. Part of that letter read:

"The Soviet people itself not to permit the formation or residence on its (the United States) territory of any organization or group, which has as an aim the overthrow of the preparation for the overthrow of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories or possessions."

One point that American diplomats cannot understand is why Moscow denies knowledge of the meeting of the International Congress of communism when Joseph Stalin and other high officials sat on the platform during the Moscow meetings.

In that connection it was emphasized that, from an historical standpoint, the Soviet government and the Communist International have been closely associated.

The United States note threatened "grave consequences." Nobody at the State Department was willing today to say what the consequences would be. Soviet reaction would be interpreted almost universally as a threat to withdraw recognition. The Administration reportedly does not wish to do anything so drastic.

Mrs. Roosevelt Declines Bid To Visit The County

MARTINEZ, Aug. 27.—If Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt comes to the coast this fall, as had been anticipated, she will be unable to visit Martinez, according to a response the secretary to the first lady has made to an invitation extended by Robert W. Willis, chairman of the Contra Costa County Democratic central committee, to view here the tree planted a year ago in the President's honor.

The invitation of Willis was extended when it was reported Mrs. Roosevelt might come to California and visit the "Clyde boys" camp. The letter of her secretary says:

"My dear Mr. Willis:

"Mrs. Roosevelt asks me to thank you very much for your letter. She would like to accept your invitation to view the tree planted in honor of the President but is afraid it will not be possible for her to do so. She is not at all sure whether or not she will go to California, but if she does she will be with the President and unable to make any separate engagements.

"Very sincerely yours,
MALVINA T. SCHLEIDER,
Secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt."

FINAL PEACE MEET NOW IN PROGRESS

Bozano, the commander-in-chief, put motorized divisions through grueling tests, concentrating on: 1.—Showing France Italy has an army fit and competent to man a complete defensive line in Europe.

CABINET TO MEET

Continuing Britain that despite Italy's demands for colonial expansion in Africa the position of the British Empire is safe.

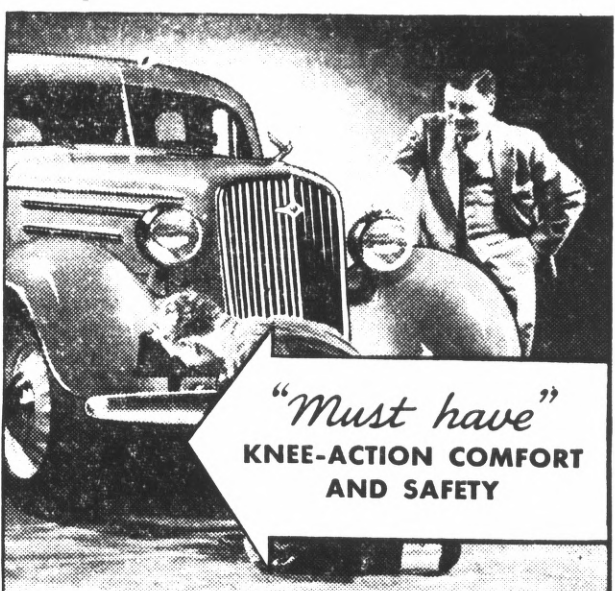

The real objective of tomorrow's emergency cabinet meeting on the simulated war front is to emphasize the main lesson of today's maneuvers Italy's ability and readiness to perform her duty in Europe.

The cabinet ministers all participating in the maneuvers, will sit in full uniform with H. Duce. French and British military missions were H. Duce's guests today.

Troops were deployed over terrain broken by rocks, ravines, bushes and woods that except for the sound of gunfire there was little evidence that thousands of soldiers were engaged in mimic combat. Only in isolated spots could the movements of the Red and Blue armies be detected.

Lessons of air action maneuvers were noted carefully for a when planes work over the heights of Ethiopia. Activities, conducted in bad weather, showed little bombing effectiveness. Contrary to expectations the cavalry was emphasized in the role of mountain infantry. Many horses were glimpsed moving single file up mountain tracks, inaccessible to wheeled vehicles.
